And Roman Military Architecture Frontiers Antiquity:

Roman Military Architecture on the Frontiers Rob Collins, Matt Symonds, Meike Weber, 2015-11-30 The Roman army was one of the most astounding organizations in the ancient world and much of the success of the Roman empire can be attributed to its soldiers Archaeological remains and ancient texts provide detailed testimonies that have allowed scholars to understand and reconstruct the army's organization and activities This interest has traditionally worked in tandem with the study of Roman frontiers Historically the early imperial period and in particular the emergence of the frontiers has been the focus of research During those investigations however the remains of the later Roman army were also frequently encountered if not always understood Recent decades have brought a burgeoning interest in not only the later Roman army but also late antiquity more widely It is the aim of this volume to demonstrate that while scholars grappling with the late Roman army may want for a rich corpus of inscriptions and easily identifiable military installations research is revealing a dynamic less predictable force that was adapting to a changing world in terms of both external threats and its own internal structures The dynamism and ingenuity of the late Roman army provides a breath of fresh air after the suffocating uniformity of its forbears The late Roman army was a vital and influential element in the late antique empire Having evolved through the 3rd century and been formally reorganized under Diocletian and Constantine the limitanei guarded the frontiers while the comitatenses provided mobile armies that were fielded against external enemies and internal threats The transformation of the early imperial army to the late antique army is documented in the rich array of texts from the period supplemented by a perhaps surprisingly rich archaeological record

Ancient Arms Race: Antiquity's Largest Fortresses and Sasanian Military Networks of Northern Iran Eberhard Sauer, Jebrael Nokandeh, Hamid Omrani Rekavandi, 2023-02-16 Which ancient army boasted the largest fortifications and how did the competitive build up of military capabilities shape world history Few realise that imperial Rome had a serious competitor in Late Antiquity Late Roman legionary bases normally no larger than 5ha were dwarfed by Sasanian fortresses often covering 40ha sometimes even 125 175ha The latter did not necessarily house permanent garrisons but sheltered large armies temporarily perhaps numbering 10 50 000 men each Even Roman camps and fortresses of the Early and High Empire did not reach the dimensions of their later Persian counterparts The longest fortified wall of the late antique world was also Persian Persia built up between the fourth and sixth centuries AD the most massive military infrastructure of any ancient or medieval Near Eastern empire if not the ancient and medieval world Much of the known defensive network was directed against Persia's powerful neighbours in the north rather than the west This may reflect differences in archaeological visibility more than troop numbers Urban garrisons in the Romano Persian frontier zone are much harder to identify than vast geometric compounds in marginal northern lands Recent excavations in Iran have enabled us to precision date two of the largest fortresses of Southwest Asia both larger than any in the Roman world. Excavations in a Gorgan Wall fort have shed much new light on frontier life and we have unearthed a massive bridge nearby. A sonar survey has traced the terminal of the Tammisheh Wall now submerged under the waters of the Caspian Sea. Further work has focused on a vast city and settlements in the hinterland. Persia's Imperial Power: our previous project had already shed much light on the Great Wall of Gorgan but it was our recent fieldwork that has thrown the sheer magnitude of Sasanian military infrastructure into sharp relief. Roman Military Architecture on the Eastern Frontier Shelagh Gregory, 1995. Early medieval militarisation Ellora Bennett, Guido M. Berndt, Stefan Esders, Laury Sarti, 2021-04-13. The societies of ancient Europe underwent a continual process of militarisation and this would come to be a defining characteristic of the early Middle Ages. The process was neither linear nor mono-causal but it affected society as a whole encompassing features like the lack of demarcation between the military and civil spheres of the population, the significance attributed to weapons beyond their military function and the wide recognition of martial values. Early medieval militarisation assembles twenty studies that use both written and archaeological evidence to explore the phenomenon of militarisation and its impact on the development of the societies of early medieval Europe. The interdisciplinary investigations break new ground and will be essential reading for scholars and students of related fields as well as non-specialists with an interest in early medieval history.

Social and Political Life in Late Antiquity William Bowden, Adam Gutteridge, Carlos Machado, 2006. This collection of papers arising from the conference series Late Antique Archaeology examines the social and political structures of the late antique period and the ways in which they are manifested in the archaeological and textual record. The Roman Frontier in Central Jordan Samuel Thomas Parker, 2006. Until the 1980s the Roman frontier in modern Jordan was among the least studied of the empire's far-flung border regions. From 1980 until 1989 the Limes Arabicus Project investigated the frontier east of the Dead Sea. Excavation focused on the late Roman legionary fortress of el Lejjun as well as soundings of four smaller but contemporaneous forts. The project's regional survey recorded over five hundred other archaeological sites in the area dating from the Paleolithic to the Late Islamic periods. This report presents detailed results from the excavated forts, a broad range of material cultural evidence from animal bones to bedouin burials and provides a synthesis of the history of this frontier which witnessed the first confrontation between the Byzantine Empire and the forces of Islam. الحدود الرومانية في الأردن Jordan.
