This volume brings together an incredible amount of work in the area of physical activity and specifically exercise and the challenges we face in engaging older adults in optimal amounts and intensities of activity. The book addresses public policy related to exercise and how policy affects physical activity among older adults. It considers evidence linking physical activity to positive outcomes along with practical issues such as pre exercise screening and risk stratification. Chapters cover aerobic, resistance, balance and stretching exercises along with recommendations for individuals suffering from specific diseases such as arthritis or dementia. Also addressed is physical activity as a determinant of health and cross setting approaches to increase function and physical activity. Of particular value is the attention given to the challenges of actually getting individuals to partake in exercise recommendations along with solutions on how to overcome these challenges. With a focus on helping adults to be active in their own way the authors share positive approaches to motivating and educating this population.
