Book And Creating Aging Friendly Communities Andrew Scharlach:

Creating Aging-Friendly Communities Andrew Scharlach, Amanda Lehning, 2015-11-16 Creating Aging Friendly Communities CAFC examines the need to redesign America's communities to respond to the realities of our rapidly aging society. The text focuses on the interface between individuals and their environments and the ways in which communities can enhance individual and community well-being. What differentiates CAFC from other books is its breadth of focus, its comprehensive and evidence-based consideration of key concepts, its inclusion of social as well as physical infrastructure characteristics, and its intensive examination of models of community change for fostering aging friendliness. It presents a conceptually and empirically based model of aging friendliness, identifies environmental modifications that could enhance individual and community well-being, outlines a typology of community change approaches, and considers the potential efficacy of those approaches. This book identifies practical implications for policies, programs, and knowledge development designed to help communities become more aging friendly.

Gray Matters Ellyn Lem, 2020-08-28 Gray Matters Finding Meaning in the Stories of Later Life examines films, literature, and art that focus on aging, often made by people who are over sixty-five. These texts are analyzed alongside recent gerontology research and extensive commentary from interviews and surveys of seniors to show how stories illuminate the dynamics of growing old by blending fact with imagination, giving a fuller picture of the aging process.

The Global Age-Friendly Community Movement Philip B. Stafford, 2018-10-19 The age-friendly community movement is a global phenomenon currently growing with the support of the WHO and multiple international and national organizations in the field of aging. Drawing on an extensive collection of international case studies, this volume provides an introduction to the movement. The contributors, both researchers and practitioners, touch on a number of current tensions and issues in the movement and offer a wide-ranging set of recommendations for advancing age-friendly community development. The book concludes with a call for a radical transformation of a medical and lifestyle model of aging into a relational model of health and social individual wellbeing.

Getting Wise about Getting Old Véronique Billette, Patrik Marier, Anne-Marie Séguin, 2020-10-01 A grey tsunami is sweeping the land, wreaking social and financial havoc in its wake. Sound familiar? This myth about aging, along with twenty-eight others, is the focus of Getting Wise about Getting Old, which paints a far more accurate and nuanced portrait of old age. In it, experts debunk myths and persistent stereotypes about aging on a broad array of social issues, from retirement, seniors as low-performance workers, to housing, most older adults live in long-term care, accommodation, and violence, senior women are not victims of sexual assault, to political participation, seniors are conservative and resistant to change, deconstructing and countering them with the latest findings. The work of two leading research groups in Quebec, the short and accessible chapters of this vitally important book contribute to a better understanding of the social challenges as well as the advantages of an aging society.

examines the need to redesign America's communities to respond to our aging society. What differentiates it from other books is its breadth of focus, evidence-based consideration of key infrastructure characteristics, and examination of the strengths and limitations of promising approaches for fostering aging friendly communities.

Age-Friendly Cities and Communities Tine Buffel, Sophie Handler, Chris Phillipson, 2018-01-17 This important book provides a comprehensive survey of different strategies for developing age friendly communities and the extent to which older people themselves can be involved in the co-production of age friendly policies and practices.

Creating Age Friendly Communities Positive Ageing Foundation, 2001* Creating Age-friendly Communities Melanie Ferris, 2015 Age friendly communities are places that actively involve value and support older adults both active and frail with infrastructure and services that effectively accommodate their changing needs.

Alley Liebig Banerjee Choi 2007 As a growing number of adults enter retirement, it is important that communities have the infrastructure services and supports in place to ensure that residents can continue healthy vibrant lives in their own homes as long as possible.

The Southwest Initiative Foundation, the Foundation serves an 18 county region in southwest Minnesota that is home to nearly 280,000 residents. In 2014, the Foundation contracted with Wilder Research to conduct an assessment to describe the needs of aging residents in the region. The assessment results are intended to help the Foundation identify potential strategies to support aging residents, including ways to encourage the development of age friendly communities.

Reimagining Age-Friendly Communities Tine Buffel, Patty Doran, Sophie Yarker, 2024-06-28 How can we design, develop, and adapt urban environments to better meet the needs of an increasingly diverse ageing population? This book highlights the urgent need to address inequalities that shape the experience of ageing in urban environments and demonstrates that despite obstacles, meaningful social change is achievable locally.

Aging in Place Rachel B. Cohen, 2002 Beyond 50.05 Andrew Kochera, 2005 Age-Friendly Cities and Communities Tine Buffel, Sophie Handler, Chris Phillipson, 2018 As the drive towards creating age friendly cities grows, this important book provides a comprehensive survey of theories and policies aimed at improving the quality of life of older people living in urban areas. In this book, part of the Ageing in a Global Context series, leading international researchers critically assess the problems and the potential of designing age friendly environments. The book considers the different ways in which cities are responding to population ageing, the different strategies for developing age friendly communities, and the extent to which older people themselves can be involved in the co-production of age friendly policies and practices. The book includes a manifesto for the age friendly movement focused around tackling social inequality and promoting community empowerment.

Age-Friendly Cities and Communities in International Comparison Thibault Moulart, Suzanne Garon, 2015-12-01 The supportive role of urban spaces in active aging is explored on a world scale in this unique resource using the WHO's Age Friendly Cities and Community model. Case studies from the U.S., Canada, Australia, Hong Kong, and elsewhere demonstrate how the model translates to fit diverse social, political, and economic realities across cultures and continents ways age friendly programs promote senior empowerment and how their value can be effectively assessed Age friendly criteria for communities are defined and critiqued while extensive empirical data describe challenges as they affect elders globally and how environmental support can help meet them These chapters offer age friendly cities as a corrective to the overemphasis on the medical aspects of elders lives and should inspire new research practice and public policy Included in the coverage A critical review of the WHO Age Friendly Cities Methodology and its implementation Seniors perspectives on age friendly communities The implementation of age friendly cities in three districts of Argentina Age friendly New York City a case study Toward an age friendly European Union Age friendliness childhood and dementia toward generationally intelligent environments With its balance of attention to universal and culture specific concerns Age Friendly Cities and Communities in International Comparison will be of particular interest to sociologists gerontologists and policymakers Given the rapid adoption of the age friendly perspective following its development by the World Health Organization the critical assessment offered in this volume is especially welcome Professor Chris Phillipson University of Manchester
