the beginning of a new school year during the Great Recession Bedford Falls Academy Executive Director Susan Lundberg proposes an ambitious five year capital improvement and enrollment growth plan The plan is a complete surprise to the Board which had met to discuss the school s strategy just three months earlier Over the previous three years the highly leveraged and cash strapped school has purchased a new facility on two hundred acres of property expanded its enrollment area to surrounding communities and expanded its programming from grades 5 8 to include grades 9 12 The 600 student enrollment is double the enrollment before the expansion that began four years ago However the 300 student target for the high school has fallen short by 100 students and to compensate the school with state permission has made up the shortfall with middle school students drawn from its long waiting list Executive Director Lundberg has a new five year contract but must deal with a board that is divided over the use of the school s land only a small portion of which is actually needed for the school s facilities Most of the land is covered with mature trees and wetlands Three board members led by Treasurer Pat

Richards want to place the school on a firmer financial footing by selling of a large portion of the land and using the proceeds to pay down debt and establish a small endowment Four board members including Chairperson Ken Jones believe that the land is a public trust and an important element of the school s brand A showdown is brewing Salem Academy Charter School: Lower School Yearbook 2016-2017 Salem Academy Charter School,Eva Ferreira,Peter Sargent,Devin and to offer parents a quality choice In the City of Newark both the quantity and quality of offerings made available to families over the past twenty years have brought progress and promise This book through the voice of various stakeholders is a chronicle of what has taken place in the City of Newark New Jersey An Early Look at the Effects of Success Academy Charter Schools Rebecca Unterman,2017 Success Academy is a rapidly expanding charter school network in New York City with schools located in the Bronx Brooklyn Manhattan and Queens In the 2016 2017 school year Success Academy served roughly 14 000 students across 41 elementary middle and high schools which at the time was about 13 percent of the students attending charter schools in the city and equivalent to about 1 2 percent of all New York City Department of Education NYCDOE students In this paper the Manpower Demonstration Research Corporation MDRC looks back to the beginning of Success Academy and uses naturally occurring lotteries for the seven Success Academy schools in operation during the 2010 2011 school year to estimate the difference in students academic achievement caused by the opportunity to enroll in a Success Academy school This work is part of an independent analysis that MDRC conducted for Success Academy s 2015 Investing in Innovation i3 federal grant application The educational outcomes of elementary students who received placements in their local Success Academy schools by being selected in lotteries are compared with the outcomes of students who entered these lotteries but were not selected for their local Success Academy schools Because not all students selected in lotteries enrolled in Success Academy schools and some of those not selected through lotteries for their local or closest Success Academy school ended up enrolling in a different Success Academy school MDRC also estimates the effects of enrolling in a Success Academy school for the lottery sample A statistical adjustment makes it possible to compare those who won their lotteries and did enroll in Success Academy schools with those who lost their lotteries and did not enroll in Success Academy schools The preliminary analysis in this paper focuses on the 4 710 students 3 804 students entering kindergarten and 906 entering first grade who applied to oversubscribed Success Academy schools in the spring of 2010 for the 2010 2011 school year and who therefore participated in lotteries Only applicants from this round of admissions could be followed long enough to measure their academic achievement using New York State s third and fourth grade mathematics and reading exams at the time the analysis was conducted While 4 710 students is a relatively large sample because the number of applicants greatly exceeded the number of seats available for the 2010 2011 school year the sample only includes about 700 students who were offered admission The resulting low ratio of lottery winners to all applicants limits the statistical precision of the estimates presented Within the constraints of this analysis MDRC finds that for the subset of students who were selected through a lottery and then enrolled in a Success Academy school enrollment had large positive effects on students math achievement in third grade roughly equivalent in magnitude to between one and one and a half typical years of learning for this age group Effects on reading did not reach conventional levels of statistical significance but are positive and promising A larger sample size would be necessary to obtain more precise estimates As explained in this report the program s effect was also estimated for all lottery winners not just those who enrolled and these estimates were similar but of a smaller magnitude The remainder of this paper explains these findings in more detail Appendix A describes how the lotteries occur within the Success Academy admission process and how the analytic models are estimated Success Academy Charter Schools funded this work as part of its 2015 Investing in Innovation grant application
