What Is AMA Style?

The AMA style developed by the American Medical Association (AMA) for the preparation of manuscripts and according to the 11th Edition of 2018.

- Use AMA style for scientific and medical materials.

Parts of a Manuscript

Use headings and subheadings to break up text and organize information in a logical progression. Avoid subheadings and using references, figures, or tables in headings and subheadings. Maintain a consistent style and spacing for each level.

- Abstracts should summarize the main points of an article and include the objectives, methods, results, and conclusions of a study.
- Abstracts are materials added to an article after it has been published or accepted for publication. An abstract may be incorporated directly into the text or in the very end of the article.
- Abstracts are located between the body of the text and the references. They contain information about the publication, contributors, financial disclosure, funding sources, sponsors, and disclosures.

Ethical & Legal Considerations

- Use ethical principles when preparing materials for publication. Medical and scientific content is often regulated by ethical and legal standards.
- Authorship: The author of a manuscript, thesis, paper, or study who has the right to take public responsibility for their contribution. Names of authors and contributors must be listed in the publication.

- Confidentiality must be protected in published work. Personal identifiers (i.e., names, dates, ethnicity, etc.) must be changed, removed, or paraphrased to protect confidentiality. The best practice is to use pseudonyms and primary.
- Copyright: Published materials may be subject to copyright laws. Published property, such as data or the theories and findings of researchers, is protected under copyright laws. Authors and editors must be aware of the rights to publish materials that are copyrighted.
