About Access

Overview of a Database

Access is a "relational database" program. In a relational database, you store larger amounts of data into the smallest possible increments within tables. You then relate these tables together by joining common fields between them; in this way, you store less redundant data and your database will operate more quickly and efficiently. When you relate tables, you are then able to access any data in the related tables. In Access, you manipulate a contained collection of smaller objects within a database file.

Access Definitions

Database: A collection of tables, queries, forms, reports, macros, and modules.

Datasheet View: Displays data from a table, form, query, view, or macro in a row-and-column format. Used to edit fields, add, delete, and search for data. Design View: Used to create new database objects and modify the design of existing objects.

Field: A column of data or single piece of data.

Form: An object which uses controls to perform actions or to enter, display, and edit data in fields.

Macro: An action or actions that automate tasks.

Module: A collection of user-defined functions, subroutines, and global variables written in VBA code, which can be accessed from anywhere in the database.

Query: A request for data results, for action on data, or both. A query can answer a simple question, perform calculations, combine data from different tables, and add, change, or delete table data.

Record: A row of data, made up of different fields.

Report: A printable object containing information formatted and organized according to specifications.

Table: A database object that stores data in records (rows) and fields (columns).

Access Basics

Creating a Database

1. To create a new database, click either the BLANK database thumbnail or a template thumbnail in the Startup Screen. Or, click the "File" tab in the Ribbon, select "New", from the menu at the left in Backstage View, and then select a thumbnail.

2. To find online templates, click a "Suggested templates" link or type in the "Search for Online Templates" text box and press "Enter" or click the "Start searching" button, then select a thumbnail. Or, enter a name in the "File Name" field.

3. To change the default location where the database is saved, click the small folder button at the right end of the "File Name" field, navigate to the location, and click the "OK" button.
