Borrowed Time: an AIDS Memoir -- Love Alone: 18 Elegies for Rog -- Becoming a Man: Half a Life Story Paul Monette, 2000

Becoming a Man Paul Monette, 2014-03-25 The National Book Award winning coming out memoir One of the most complex moral personal and political books to have been written about gay life LA Weekly Paul Monette grew up all American Catholic overachieving and closeted As a child of the 1950s a time when a kid suspected of being a homo would routinely be beaten up Monette kept his secret throughout his adolescence He wrestled with his sexuality for the first thirty years of his life priding himself on his ability to pass for straight The story of his journey to adulthood and to self acceptance with grace and honesty this intimate portrait of a young man's struggle with his own desires is witty humorous and deeply felt Before his death of complications from AIDS in 1995 Monette was an outspoken activist crusading for gay rights Becoming a Man shows his courageous path to stand up for his own right to love and be loved This ebook features an illustrated biography of Paul Monette including rare images and never before seen documents from the Paul Monette papers of the UCLA Library Special Collections Magill's Literary Annual 1989 Frank N. Magill, 1989-06 Reviews of significant fiction and nonfiction published in 1988 Provides coverage for works that are likely to be of particular interest to the general reader that reflect the publishing trends of a given year and that will stand up to the test of time The Oxford Guide to Contemporary World Literature John Sturrock, 1997 opinion the Guide offers a discriminating and sometimes controversial view of a broad range of contemporary literatures Christopher Street Charles Ortleb, 1988 The Evolution of AIDS Narratives Jennifer Jean Lavoie, 2018 At the beginning of the AIDS crisis in 1981 most literature about the disease came in the form of medical reports written by doctors observing unusual clusters of Pneumocystis pneumonia It wasn't until 1988 that the first AIDS memoir emerged and with it came a wholly new literary genre However while AIDS fiction is heavily analyzed by literary critics these narratives particularly contemporary memoirs are often left untouched While there has been discussion of early narratives including the seminal AIDS Borrowed Time 1988 by Paul Monette little has been done with more contemporary memoirs such as Body Counts 2014 by Sean Strub and The Nearness of Others 2014 by David Caron Though all three are considered literary AIDS memoirs that share a focus on the politics and treatment of AIDS I suggest a shift occurs between the earliest memoirs and those published within the last decade Drawing on Monette Strub and Caron as my examples and using close reading in conjunction with historical and medical texts I will discuss the evolution I have noted a shift in representations with AIDS becoming as the central focus in life of the author on the one hand to representations of AIDS as just another part of a life prolonged by effective medical treatments However I also propose here that a secondary slightly less expected shift occurs within the gay community after this medicine is introduced I argue that while medical progress extends the life of a patient with HIV it also paradoxically appears to reverse the social and political progress of the HIV community pushing them outside the culture of their larger communities Reading HIV AIDS memoirs as literature will continue to highlight not only the struggles within the positive community but also within the LGBT community itself Furthermore considering these memoirs as literary and even social treatises in their own right will allow us to see the ironies and injustices perpetuated by the institutions we would ordinarily expect to protect us The Wisdom of Memoir Peter Gilmour, 1997 Peter Gilmour examines the literary genre of the memoir in human experience and religious tradition exploring memoir's contribution to spirituality ending with teaching the reader how to read and write memoirs The Advocate, 2002 UCLA Journal of International Law and Foreign Affairs, 2013 Magill's Literary Annual 1993 Frank Northen Magill, 1993 Reviews of significant fiction and nonfiction published in 1992

Provides coverage for works that are likely to be of particular interest to the general reader that reflect the publishing trends of a given year and that will stand up to the test of time
