State-By-State Guide to Architect, Engineer, and Contractor Licensing Richard A. Holderness, Walker, Stephen D. Butler, Stephen G. Walker, 1995-12-31 Failure to comply with state licensing laws could derail a construction engineering or architecture project and even put licenses and payments in jeopardy. Don't take the risk. Turn to the resource that provides comprehensive guidance on the architecture engineering and contractor license laws for all 50 states and the District of Columbia. State by State Guide to Architect, Engineer, and Contractor Licensing gathers all of the vital information you need in one convenient source to help you develop a cost effective compliance strategy. Engineer and Contractor Licensing practitioners will be prepared to handle virtually any state licensing question including: Is a license required for the design or construction work that is going to be performed? Is a license required before the bid or proposal is submitted? What are the special licensing requirements for partnerships for corporations? Is a seal for stamping drawings required of design professionals? If so, which design documents must be stamped? Is a license necessary when bidding for work? Who in the organization must stamp these documents? What are the penalties if the license is not received on time? If an agent is managing the construction for an owner, must he obtain a license?

In addition, no single resource addressed seismic design practices in both Canada and the United States until now. Elements of Earthquake Engineering and Structural Dynamics was written to fill the gap. It presents the key elements of earthquake engineering and structural dynamics at an introductory level and gives readers the basic knowledge they need to apply the seismic provisions contained in Canadian and American building codes.
